

SERVICE LEARNING (SRV)

SRV-200 Service Learning (1 credits)

This experiential course introduces undergraduate students to volunteerism, civic-engagement, and community service through a theory to practice to reflection service-learning model. The academic aspect will explore local and global communities. Students will explore the connection between what they learn in the course, what they experience volunteering in the community, and end with class reflection on how their efforts made an impact.

Course Types: Civic Engagement; Humanities; Service Learning